

IEEE IES ICEM18 Manuscript Submission System

Confirmation of the Manuscript Submission

Thank you for your submission. Your manuscript entitled Design of a GaN Based Integrated Modular Motor Drive was received and stored on our server. Please print this page and write down your manuscript number. Please mention this number and the conference code ICEM18 in any correspondence with the conference organizers.

AD-006971

Please follow this link to verify if we received your document correctly. It should open it in another window. Should you notice any problems please replace it with corrected version using the regular manuscript replacement procedure that is outlined below.

Should you need to replace the older version of your manuscript any time before the deadline, go ahead and submit the new version once again. Remember to fill in the old transaction number data field in the submission form so that the old manuscript is removed from the system. You will also need to enter your password:

3174

You will also receive confirmation by e-mail that will be sent to mesutugur@gmail.com.

Noticed errors in this submission?

Should you not receive the confirmation e-mail, please login using the returning author entrance and access your draft submission from the author menu. If you detect any errors either in your manuscript or in the data you provided in the submission form then proceed to resubmit/update the draft manuscript with corrections. You can do it unlimited number of times by the submission deadline or until your manuscript is forwarded to reviewers whatever happens first. Please do not attempt to submit another version of your manuscript under a different cover form. Repeated submissions are eliminated from the system automatically.

Done Viewing

